SUBJECT: Class I-N

Pursuant to telephone conversation of yesterday, the following reference to Class I-N appears in a study of World War II operations, Selective Service System Special Monograph No. 5, "The Classification Process."

Class I-N had been provided on August 31, 1941, to conform to the law as enacted at that time, as the proper classification for registrants in Class I who had reached their twenty-first birthday. This class was abolished November 19, 1942, after the law had been further amended to expunge that provision.
